Dear Authors,

I strongly encourage to seriously consider the comments of the three reviewers for producing a better paper. One reviewer asked for more simulations and comparisons. I am aware, as the reviewer is, that this can imply a lot of work when actually not changing so much the scientific content that the paper conveys. I leave to your decision to act or not in this direction. For the rest, they raised a few questions that I judge important, and should be answered to obtain a paper that meets the standards of the Cryosphere Journal.
