I found this to be an extremely careful and well written analysis of 20th century glacier retreat on Kilimanjaro. I commend the authors for their very detailed and well documented study. I think this paper will provide the new standard for all future discussions of Kilimanjaro glacier retreat and I hope that the new data can provide a powerful basis for future analysis and modeling experiments to better understand the climatic forcings that contributed to the fast glacier retreat observed over the 20th century. I have no additional requests for revisions beyond what reviewer 1 already discussed and I suggest accepting the paper once these revisions are completed.
