

The source code is not (yet?) on the personal website. I suggest to add the code as an electronic supplement to the manuscript. This would ensure the long-term availability of the code version which was used to produce the results. This would be very beneficial in terms of traceability and utility.

The code is now available on the personal website. It is also added as an electronic supplement to the manuscript.

PALSAR wavelength is 23.62 not 12 cm.

Error corrected now.

Acknowledgements are missing. How was the study funded?

Acknowledgements are added.