We thank the reviewer for her-his constructive and thorough review of the manuscript. We provide an updated version of the manuscript, written according to the reviewer's comments and suggestions, as well as those from the second reviewer. We responded to all of the general and specifics comments below (reviewers comments are in black bold, our response in blue), and provide, when relevant, a reference to the corresponding position of the related changes in the text. We provide an edited version of the paper, including track changes (in red, added or modified text, and suppressed text), and a final version. Many issues were also raised by the other reviewer, we simply provide the same answers in these cases.
