

Point by point response to the second review of the TC-2023-142

Reviewer #1 has requested a few more very minor items need to be addressed. They are:

1. Please add a flowchart of this paper to enhance a clarity.

The manuscript flowchart has been added as Figure 1. The corresponding sentence at line 117 has been added as well, and the figure numbers have been changed correspondingly throughout the manuscript.

2. Please add this Niehaus et al., 2024 in the reference lists.

The Niehaus et al., 2024 reference has been added at lines 729-731.

Reviewer #1 also stated: I found "will be added in the next version of the text" throughout the response. These will be added next revision round?

Initially, the point-by-point response to the reviewers was prepared before the manuscript has been changed, that's why we refer to these changes in future form. The version of the manuscript submitted after the point-by-point response had therefore already contained the declared changes. The authors agree that this formulation was unfortunate, and use the past tense formulation in the current point-by-point response instead.
